

THE CALEDONIAN.

LOCAL AND STATE ITEMS.

Local.

The St. Johnsbury Fire Department mustered for its semi-annual inspection by the engineers on Saturday afternoon. It was a rainy, muddy, uncomfortable day, but the boys were out with full ranks, and tested their apparatus to the satisfaction of the engineers and the amusement of the crowd that assembled. From the report of the chief engineer, Mr. Franklin Fairbanks, we learn that the department was called out to three fires during the past year; that the companies have a full complement of members, except the Hook and Ladder boys, who lack a few men, and that the fire apparatus is in a fair condition.

At the last school meeting, held Friday evening, the committee through their chairman, Mr. Horace Fairbanks, made a very full and intelligible report of the plans, location and cost of structure of the two new school houses in contemplation, and after full and harmonious discussion it was unanimously voted to build a new house on the vacant lot opposite the present Union house, with accommodations for five schools, removing the present house and using that square as a playground and public common. Strong preference was given for a brick house. The Messrs Fairbanks donate the site for the new house. It was also voted to build a new house in the depot village, near the foot of Maple street, and a building committee was appointed to proceed at once to the erection of these two houses. We have got a start now in the right direction.

Our state jailors will have to be more wary. By an item elsewhere it will be seen that the desperadoes, Calif brothers, are again at large.

Messrs. Prouty and French will hold a musical convention at Lower Waterford, Tuesday evening, June 16, continuing through Friday with a concert the last night.

We understand the books belonging to the Firemen's Library have been called in for the purpose of re-binding. We are agents for one of the best binderies in the country and would like the job.

Enrolling officer, Barron Moulton, Esq., is about the village asking almost every man he meets his name and age—hardly civil questions in any but war times.

There was a very perceptible shock of an earthquake felt here at about 9.40 Tuesday evening, lasting about half a minute. Cracks rattled and windows shook in some localities.

The generous individual who dropped a quarter into the contribution box last Sabbath can redeem the same with silver, scrip or nickels, by calling soon on treasurer of the Sabbath School.

The court completed its jury cases on Thursday of the present week, and jury was dismissed.

Sudden Death.
On last Saturday Mr. John Banfill, employe of the Messrs Fairbanks, fell from his wagon, in front of his own house and died immediately. He was seen to take a seat upon the side of his wagon, and then lean over the wheel as though he was looking for something. He continued to gradually settle over until he lost his balance and fell to the ground. It was at first thought that death was caused by a dislocation of the neck, but at a post mortem examination held on Monday it was found that the immediate cause of death was a fatty degeneration of the heart, this organ being four or five times as large as a healthy heart should be. Mr. Banfill came from Bradford, was about fifty years old, and what is quite remarkable, considering the state of his vital organs, was never sick a day in his life.

Mr. Fairbanks' Lecture.
A very large audience listened attentively to Mr. Charles Fairbanks' lecture at the Town Hall on Thursday evening of last week. It is perhaps not generally known that Mr. Fairbanks has recently returned from England after a residence of two and one-half years in that country. The subject of his lecture was American affairs as seen from a European point of view. We jotted down some of the points in this lecture, but shall utterly fail of giving our readers who were not present a correct idea of its best points and most felicitous passages. The large audience, which remained quiet to the end, was good evidence that it was appreciated.

Mr. Fairbanks began by saying that the leading town at Bristol, England, was likely to be differently described by different writers, but should not become a matter of passionate conflict because seen differently and oppositely by beholders from different points. So of the opinions and views of the civil and political quarrels of which we have to do. Of the great American struggle the views abroad are not to be supposed like our own. In accounting for European, and especially English views, we should refer to our history and position among the nations. Amid the tossing of Freedom's struggle in Europe the founders of this nation aimed and professed to establish a truly free government here. The attempt was marked throughout the civilized world, and the results watched for, and ultimately the inconsistency seen, of the freest government holding in tightest bonds one-eighth of the country's population. This exhibition of slavery in the midst of the 19th century was especially obnoxious to the people of England who had succeeded in freeing themselves from the evil, and were thoroughly aroused to its enormity. To their view the North was fully implicated and the whole nation involved. And they proceeded to administer wholesome advice in the arrogant old John Bull style, which of course was only heeded in the true Young Jonathan style, and such Yankee response made as, at the distance, to greatly bedim if not annihilate all marks of distinction between the North and South as to the prevalence and sway of the slavery sentiment and the crime of its existence. So that when the Rebellion came the North had no preference in English sympathy on the ground of opposition to slavery. And as there had been very earnest but false teachings upon the North's oppressive treatment of the South, the latter found the most favor. The state of things was greatly aggravated by the bad industry of English aristocratic enmity in its spite, and the English Press in "secess" pay, as it is well known that the London Times was bought up early, or even before the struggle commenced, by rebel emissaries and has only done their work too well ever since. The mass in England whose heart was mainly right became thoroughly mistaken as to the great issues involved, and thus failed to give the response of sympathy which was expected when the North was aroused at the taking of Sumter. And then England, like the rest of the world, worships success; and as our army and navy failed to achieve any results in proportion to the noise and number of their mustering, time and facility were given for that perversion to extend and harden. This failure to respond in sympathy with us was due in part also to the tardy arrival of our government to the true necessities of the case and the will of Providence, that Slavery should receive special attention and effectual treatment. Then came the President's emancipation Proclamation which was hailed with enthusiasm throughout England—emancipation societies were formed in London and information was diffused throughout the nation; and the truth concerning the American struggle lectured upon and read by the multitudes who are now so fast coming to believe in the merits of our cause as to stoutly check the sway of designing politicians and haters of Republics among the aristocracy. The change is great and increasing under the energetic working of anti-slavery benevolence and religious principle. We shall hear no more of intervention of England—we shall see that there is a more wholesome restraint upon ship building for piracy upon American commerce. But however important it is to have in our favor the moral sentiment and good wishes of England or any other European nation, it is incumbent on us to follow out our convictions and acquire our success independently of the favor or censure of them all. And it is unworthy of us—both compromising our dignity and diminishing our strength—to go abroad begging for sympathy from any nation. Our self-respect, our honor, our very existence require that our own national might be relied on and wielded under the guidance and favor of the Almighty. So let us stand together and do successful battle for the Right, and trust the issue with God.

Is He Loyal?

Is Daniel N. Beckwith of Sutton a loyal man? It is reported upon what we consider good authority that he has said that he did not care whether the United or Confederate States conquered in this war! This is the man who is appointed chief enrolling officer in this district under the conscription act, and whose duty it will be to enroll loyal men to go and bleed and die for the deliverance of our country from traitors' hands. If the charges against him are true, was ever a loyal people more grossly insulted and outraged? Are there not returned and disabled soldiers enough to act as enrolling officers?—men who have given their best blood and health for the salvation of our country? If there are not enough men of this stamp are there not loyal men in sufficient numbers to fill all the offices under this new law? This Beckwith is the same man who has been appointed postmaster at Sutton against the remonstrance of the best men in town and in Caledonia County. The goddess of Justice is represented as being blind—is she deaf also?

Improvements.

In this village many changes have been made for the better by property-holders, during the last twelve months. New houses have been built, old houses repaired; old buildings torn down and more slightly edifices erected in their places. Not a day has passed without some improvement being made which would add to the beauty and prosperity of the village. On the corner of Main and Winter streets Mr. P. Clough, of the express line, has erected a handsome wooden building, while a few rods further north on Main street Dr. Brown has built a substantial looking brick residence. Both houses are of modern form, are thoroughly made, well finished have modern improvements, and present a fine appearance and add greatly to the beauty of that portion of the village. On the lot at the corner of Pleasant and Summer streets, where the house was burnt about one year ago, Geo. S. Shaw, Esq., is having built a large square house, which, when done, will compare favorably with any in the place. Two other houses are in process of erection on Summer street, but are not far enough advanced to form an idea of their appearance when completed. Just north of the North Church Des. Stockwell has put up a substantial two story white house, while nearly opposite, J. M. Eddy, Esq., has remodelled and repaired the Wright house until it is "just as good as new." Many lesser improvements have been made, such as an entire renovation of the inside of the Passumpsic Bank, Mr. Howe's grocery, etc., etc. The Messrs. E. & T. Fairbanks & Co. are building a new boarding block near their scale manufactory, 150 feet long and two stories high. It will be built in that thorough and substantial manner which characterizes all of their work, and will be one of the best boarding houses in the state. On Railroad street, too, extensive improvements have been and are still being made. New buildings are constantly going up over the river, and the residents in that part of the village are determined not to be behind in any good work. A stranger standing at the depot and looking across the river cannot but notice the beautiful appearance of the Catholic Cemetery. Under the direction of Father Danielou's path has been cut, terraces, and their green fronts, rise one above the other, and on these are the beds, neatly bordered with grass, where sleep the dust of many a loved one. This cemetery is truly an ornament to the village.

But with all these improvements there are a few yet which might and should be made. We would suggest that during the summer the person or persons whose duty it is, see that some provision is made to carry off the surplus water, instead of letting it stand, as it did last spring, from one to three feet deep in the street. We can get along very comfortably until the water runs over the tops of long-legged rubber boots, but after the water fills them we feel like crying.

"A boat, a boat, to cross the ferry!" Last spring a physician gave an excuse for not sooner answering a summons to a sick bed, side that he did not want to cross the lake in front of the Piano Forte Warehouse, for fear of getting drowned, and he like one fancifully, "waited for the waters to subside!" Will the village authorities put in a drain this season or furnish a ferryboat to carry people free of charge this fall?

Soldiers' Aid Society—Review of the Year.

The Ladies' Soldiers' Aid Society of St. Johnsbury has numbered the past year 80 members. As the result of their weekly gatherings they have been able to send the following articles: 61 dressing gowns, 30 flannel shirts, 16 flannel drawers, 350 cotton shirts, 115 cotton drawers, 26 pairs mittens, 65 pairs feetings, 34 pairs slippers, 18 night caps, 212 towels, 111 sheets, 31 bed quilts, 5 blankets, 34 coats, 12 pairs pants, 3 caps, 9 vests, 11 pillows, 109 pillow cases, 26 pillow sacks, 8 bed-sacks, 3 testaments, 1 bundle soldiers' tracts, 20 pads for wounded limbs, a large quantity of bandages and lint; also jellies, fruit, starch, farina, &c. They have also furnished three companies with towels and needle-books. These supplies have been sent to the Sanitary Commission, except in one or two cases of special appeal from particular localities. In every case their gifts have been thankfully received and acknowledged. The report of the treasurer is as follows:

Rec'd from initiation fees,	$20.00

Children's concert,	4.80
Allen's tableaux troupe,	10.00
S. M. Hewlett's lecture,	10.79

Expenses of society,	243.26
Amount in treasury, June 1,	$170.45

The society desire to extend their sincere thanks to the young ladies for their contribution of $122.12, the proceeds of their late fair; and also to the many friends who have so kindly and generously aided them in their work both by contributions and labor. They trust they have and will continue to merit the confidence of the public, that together they may be better prepared to meet the great and increasing demand upon our humanity and patriotism. The need must be as vast and as lasting as the war itself, and we must remember that our responsibility and indebtedness can only be measured by the sacrifice and sufferings of those to whom we owe the safety of our firesides and the defense of our country.

Accident.

A son of John C. Stanley of Maidstone, while fooling with a pistol, accidentally put a bullet up through his own jaw and tongue, lodging it somewhere in his head. It is not believed to have injured his brain!

Orleans County.

Wm. P. Sartell of Barton has been appointed to a cadetship in the United States Military School at West Point.—Mr. Erasmus Chamberlain of Irasburg has lately presented us with a couple of hen's eggs, measuring 8 by 6 1/2 and 8 1/2 by 6 inches in circumference, respectively. If any one can show a smarter old pullet than the one who did the above, we should like to know it. These were "extras," however and not her "regular issues." One of them was dropped at the time Richmond was taken, and the other when Vicksburg fell.—Standard.—Ira Barnes, recently escaped from Irasburg jail, and previously connected with various thieving operations, has just been recaptured at Bebee Plains, C. E., in company with a brother felon. Hill is still at large, supposed to be looking up another wife.

Another Vt. Jail Cleared Out.

Walton's Daily (Montpelier) says that on Monday evening about 9 o'clock, as Jailor Camp, was about to enter the Jail to ascertain if the prisoners were in their cells and properly confined, Calif Brothers, recently brought here from Chelsea, (one of whom broke out of Chelsea jail a short time since) bolted through into the ante-room and with a broomstick knocked Mr. Camp down and running over him, after a exciting tussle with his wife and daughters succeeded in escaping. The women deserve praise for their fidelity and bravery in attempting to stop the runaway prisoners after Mr. Camp was disabled. The night was very dark and rainy, affording the best opportunity for the prisoners to pass through the streets undetected.

Capt. L. H. Bostwick, of the 13th Regiment, di'd of typhoid fever, according to intelligence received here on Thursday evening. He was from Jericho, and a young man of great promise.—Free Press.

A RETURNED GENERAL.

"Change of Time." The horse formerly known in the northern part of Caledonia county, as the RUGGLES HORSE, has been purchased by Mr. D. E. RUGGLES, his former owner, and will be kept the coming season at the two following places for the improvement of stock: Mondays at Sheffield Hollow N. Folsom's stable; the rest of the time at D. E. RUGGLES' stable in Sutton. Persons from a distance are requested to come Wednesday. Good pasturing for those that wish.

Said horse was sired by the Billy Root Morgan, and his dam was a large Morgan mare formerly owned by L. Watson of Burke. Terms: $5.00 to insure, or $5.00 the season. All mares disposed of before the usual time of foaling will be considered with foal. For recommendations as a stock horse I will only refer to the reputation which he won in former years, and it has been steadily gaining as his colts have come to maturity and sold for high prices, as they universally make stylish drivers and good roadsters. 48-33 D. E. RUGGLES, Proprietor.
